About Reynolds Landing House

Reynolds Landing House is located in the heart of the Historic District. Dating from 1853, Reynolds Landing House is only a block away from the splendor of Forsyth Park.

This historic Inn is located on Gordon Row, and is within walking distance of all the attractions downtown. A morning walk to the infamous Mercer House, which is less than a block away, followed by a stroll in Forsyth Park and lunch at Mrs. Wilkes' Restaurant is a great way to start your day!

Slightly further afield lie the attractions of the Juliette Gordon Low house, the Teller Art Museum, the Owen Thomas House, and the picturesque campus of the Savannah College of Art and Design.

Reynolds Landing House features air-conditioned rooms furnished with antiques, oriental carpets and a variety of books. The charming courtyard gardens offer a pleasant retreat after an action-packed day of seeing the historic sights of Savannah.
